

THE MIRACLES OF ST. BENEDICT

(34) I'll Fly Away

adapted by Deacon Roy Goetz, from [The Dialogues, Book II by St. Gregory the Great]

Recall the previous scene where Scholastica prays up a storm to extend her visit with Benedict. Three days later, standing at the window of his room looking skyward, Benedict saw his sister's soul ascend to heaven in the form of a dove. Overjoyed at her heavenly reward, he gave thanks to God. Later he informed his brethren of her death and instructed them to retrieve her body. She would be buried in the tomb prepared for Benedict at the abbey. The bodies of these two were to share a common resting place, just as in life they had always been one in God.
